Train with Poynter

Apply for a Knight-Poynter Scholarship

There's never been a better time to receive valuable professional development from The Poynter Institute.

If you've wanted to attend a Poynter seminar or take advantage of its many online learning opportunities, but haven't had the funds, now is the time. Poynter is offering scholarship monies for our association's members.

You can pick from one of the institute's many in-person seminars, an online group seminar or other offerings—and add Poynter training to your credentials.

Made possible through a grant from The John S. and James L. Knight Foundation, the scholarships provide professional development opportunities to journalists and media leaders from underrepresented demographic groups in an effort to increase their effectiveness and presence in newsrooms.

Must be a current, dues-paying member of one of the following associations: National Association of Black Journalists; National Association of Hispanic Journalists; Native American Journalists Association; Asian American Journalists Association; Journalism and Women Symposium; and National Lesbian and Gay Journalists Association.

Upcoming Poynter Programs

Interested in attending one of these programs? Current association members can apply for a scholarship.

ON-SITE SEMINARS

For Poynter's on-site seminars we bring together about 16 participants, Poynter faculty and the industry's most accomplished journalists for several days of intensive training on our campus in St. Petersburg, Florida. Poynter seminars emphasize a hands-on approach.

- Oct. 10-15 Poynter Leadership Academy
- Oct. 25-28 Critical Tools for the Non-Traditional Journalist
- Nov. 8-12 Essential Skills for the Digital Journalist
- Nov. 14-19 Editing 2010: How to Wear 5 Hats & Succeed
- Dec. 9-10 Poynter National Writers Workshop

ONLINE GROUP SEMINARS

An online group seminar has readings, assignments, due dates and discussion forums. A faculty member guides the group through new material, moderates discussions and provides individual feedback. Enrollment is limited.

- Sept. 13-Oct. 8 Becoming a More Effective Reporter: Telling Untold Stories
- Nov. 1-19 Becoming a More Effective Editor: Strategies for Editing Yourself and Others

WEBINARS

Scholarships are available for any upcoming Webinars at Poynter's News University. Click the "Apply Now" button and indicate your membership in the scholarship application.
